

Luke 6:27-28

But to you who are listening I say: Love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, bless those who curse you, pray for those who mistreat you.

Father God, maybe others don't find this command difficult to follow, but I find it hard to love enemies, and all the other things you tell us to do. It is in my heart to dislike, have ideas of revenge and get even with those who mistreat me. In my heart, I know we are to follow Jesus even in all of this. Will you forgive me and help me become like you in this matter; help me to listen to you before I speak and while I am thinking situations over? Without your help in this, I will be unable. I ask you because I know this is important to you and for my prayers to be answered. Amen.
