

Ecclesiastes 7:10

Do not say, “Why were the old days better than these?”

For it is not wise to ask such questions.

Father God, help me to live life for today. You are the God of the past, present, and future. It is not wise to long for the past because we can remake our memory of the past better or worse than it was. We can do that for the future too, Father, with our imaginations. So that leaves today, the present time to live. Help me, Lord, to awaken to Your blessings, new every morning. Help me to work with You through the day, and when night falls, let me sense Your presence and know Your embrace, wishing for nothing except that I sleep nestled in Your care. Today is enough. Amen.
